

DEVON

Wembury strandline walk

This circular walk from Wembury Beach to Wembury Point heads out via the coast path and back along the beach. There are sea views out to the Great Mewstone as well as opportunities to go rockpooling and search the strandline for marine treasures.

Check tide times

This route is dependent on tide times as it's not possible to walk back along the beach at high tide. Check www.tidetimes.org.uk for more information.

Information

Address: Wembury Beach National Trust car park,
Wembury, Devon, PL9 0HR

OS map: Landranger 201

Activity: Walking

Moderate: The route is on a coastal footpath and along a sandy beach. For further details, see Terrain section.

Dog friendly: Dogs are not allowed on the beach between May and September. Please keep them under control near rockpools, due to the sensitivity of the marine life there.

Full trail: Miles: 2.0 (km: 3.2)

Access: Challenging

Duration: 1 hour 30 mins

Terrain

The route is on a coastal footpath that can become muddy then along a sandy beach. If you go rockpooling, wear sturdy shoes and watch your footing.

Total steps: 6

Start point: Wembury Beach National Trust car park, grid ref SX515485

1. Walk down towards the beach and follow the path along the coast to the west.
2. Note the slipway to your right. On the next Step, the midway point of the walk, this will allow you to access the beach for the route back.
3. Once you've dropped on to the beach, the path crosses some rocky outcrops, be sure to watch your footing. There's always lots to be found along this section of the coast.
4. When you reach the rocky section of the beach you'll come across warm, shallow pools. These rockpools are home to some colourful marine life, so get ready to spend plenty of time investigating.
5. Follow the bottom of the cliffs here for flatter ground and a slightly easier walk. But be aware of debris falling from above.
6. The walk comes to a close back at your starting point near the car park at Wembury Beach.

End point: Wembury Beach National Trust car park, grid ref SX515485