

OXFORDSHIRE, BUCKINGHAMSHIRE & BERKSHIRE

Bluebell trail through ancient woodland at Basildon Park

We are delighted to announce a brand new bluebell trail at Basildon Park that will be available during bluebell season. Available only from 2 April to 31 May whilst the bluebells are at their best.

Information

Address: The trail loops away from the green estate walk. See What3Words for the precise start location.

Activity: Walking

Moderate

Dog friendly

Full trail: Miles: 0.4 (km: 0.64)

Duration: 0.3 hour 20 mins

Terrain

The bluebell trail itself is slightly undulating, the ground underneath can be soft as is typical with woodland so appropriate footwear is advised.

Please follow the guidance for the green trail for further information on the terrain - much of which is undulating with tree routes and some steps and inclines along the way before you reach the start of the bluebell wood.

Total stages: 2

Start point: The trail route is a 600 meter detour from the existing woodland estate walk (marked in green on our maps). If you take the green route, just past the bug hotel you will follow the path round to the right. Signs should be up ahead directing you right onto a ranger track. The full bluebell trail is roped so please stay to the paths as you loop round.

1. The starting point is signposted - follow the direction signage to begin the 600 meter stretch of ancient woodland.
2. Continue to follow the loop of the trail for 600 meters until you re-join the main path.

End point: The marked trail ends when you return to the main footpath.